

summoned to appear before the commission today.

The commission wants to find out what happens to girls farmed out under the direction of the Juvenile Court.

The Rev. Mr. Schlecte, superintendent of the Chicago Kinderfreund and the Peoria Kinderhelm, said that the using of the funds of the former for the latter by him, had been due to ignorance of the law.

MOST ANYTHING

Line at New York license clerk's window was held up an hour while agitated clerk arranged the marriage license of Miltiades Stamatopoulos and Antonia Theofilagranakos.

One-legged man hopped into Elmhurst, L. I., station and identified artificial leg found in the road where he lost it while riding a horse.

Bride in Poughkeepsie wants a separation because her husband wouldn't buy her cucumbers.

Negro, acquitted of larceny by a lawyer's touching appeal in St. Louis, stole his attorney's watch when leaving court.

Playing soulful music in restaurant of N. Y. hotel, violinist was interrupted by summons in breach of promise suit.

REFERENDUM TO BE USED ON ANTI-ALIEN LAND BILL

Sacramento, Cal., May 3.—Following the passage by the state senate of the amended anti-alien land-owning bill shortly after midnight, and the conceded probable passage late tonight by the assembly, Chambers of Commerce and large business interests throughout California are already preparing to invoke the referendum in the hope of delaying the operation of the law until the general election of 1914.

The upper house put the measure through after ten hours of debate by a vote of 36 to 2, one Democrat and one Republican dissenting. The remaining nine Democrats ignored the advice of Secretary Bryan and supported the measure after it had been amended to permit "ineligible aliens" to lease land for periods of three years, but not to renew such leases.

The bill does not affect the ownership of land already held by aliens, but it provides that no ineligible alien may inherit California land.

30,000 SUFFRAGETS MARCH IN NEW YORK PARADE

New York, May 3.—Thirty thousand determined, serious women swung away from Washington square at 3 o'clock this afternoon, and the third annual parade of the woman suffragists was on.

There was no laughing, no frivolity, no waving to friends along the line of march. The women seemed imbued with the spirit of the "cause." Applause came from the spectators lining Fifth avenue, but the marchers themselves were silent.

There was no attempt at the spectacular. The women were content to impress the magnitude of their mission by the number of marchers.

Twenty-four hundred young women on horseback headed the parade. Their captain, the individual leader of the whole procession, was Miss Inez Milholland, who has been severely criticized by other suffragists lately for alleged indiscreet interviews.

Prominent in the parade was the little band of "hikers" under command of Gen. Rosalie Jones, wearing the same uniforms they wore on their famous tramp to Washington. Delegations of real women voters from the nine equal suffrage states had a post of honor. One entire section was made up of college girls.

The line of march was straight up Fifth avenue to the Plaza, where half a dozen speakers' stands had been erected and where addresses for the cause were to be delivered by prominent suffrage leaders.